

New Employment Standards Poster Released

by Maria Kotsopoulos
Originally published in Employment Update (May 2015)

Maria Kotsopoulos is a Partner at Blaney McMurtry and a member of the Employment and Labour Group. Maria practices in all areas of labour, employment and human rights law. She advocates on behalf of employers, not for profit organizations, trade unions, and employees, and has been involved in matters before the Superior Court of Justice, the Federal Court, the Labour Board, the Human Rights Tribunal, the Workplace Safety and Insurance Appeals Tribunal, and other tribunals.

Maria can be reached directly at 416.593.2987 or mkotsopoulos@blaney.com.

The Ontario Ministry of Labour has released a new version of the Employment Standards Poster, version 6.0. In addition to posting, employees must receive a copy of the poster.

Here's what you need to do:

Posting

The poster entitled "Employment Standards in Ontario" (Version 6.0) is required to be posted in the workplace in a location likely to come to the attention of employees.

The poster must be displayed in English and in another language that is the majority language of employees at a workplace - if applicable and if the Ministry has published a version of the poster in that language.

Employees Must Receive Copy

In addition, employers must provide a copy of the poster to any employee covered by the Employment Standards Act, 2000 by June 19, 2015.

For employees hired after May 20, 2015, a copy of the poster must be provided within 30 days of hire.

The poster can be provided to employees as a printed copy, as an attachment in an email or as a link to the document on a database that employees have reasonable access to.

Version 6.0 of the Employment Standards poster can be found here:
<http://www.labour.gov.on.ca/english/es/pubs/poster.php#who> ■