Blaney McMurtry LLP

NEWS

Blaneys Partner Scott Beeser Recognized in Chambers Global Guide 2026 for Intellectual Property: Litigation

Date: February 12, 2026

Blaney McMurtry is pleased to announce that Partner Scott Beeser has been recognized in the Chambers Global Guide 2026 in Band 5 for Intellectual Property: Litigation in Canada.

Scott is a seasoned intellectual property litigator with more than two decades of experience acting as first-chair trial and appellate counsel, particularly within the pharmaceutical and information technology sectors, including matters before the Supreme Court of Canada. He has built a strong reputation for high-stakes litigation under the Patented Medicines (Notice of Compliance) Regulations and for developing innovative patent and regulatory strategies, including serving as lead counsel on one of the first successful pharmaceutical summary trials invalidating patent claims on a major blockbuster drug.

Drawing on his background as former in-house counsel at a Canadian generic drug manufacturer, Scott brings a pragmatic, client-focused approach to patent, trademark and copyright matters. In addition to his litigation practice, he is a registered Canadian patent and trademark agent with procurement experience across a broad range of technical industries.

Congratulations to Scott on this well-deserved recognition and on his continued contributions to excellence in intellectual property litigation.

About Chambers Global Guide

Published annually, the Chambers Global Guide is widely regarded as one of the legal industry's most respected rankings, identifying leading lawyers and law firms worldwide based on independent research, client feedback, and market analysis.

PEOPLE

- Scott Beeser