Government Procurement & Litigation

From service provider RFP to construction project wrap-up, Blaneys lawyers have experience and expertise in helping clients who work with governments. We advise on infrastructure projects at all levels of government, and on material and service supply agreements.

We can help you prepare tenders, advise on selection of bidders, and negotiate the final contract.

When disputes arise, our litigation team ensures your rights are protected through negotiation, mediation, arbitration and litigation. We have experience in resolving disputes regarding the sale of goods and equipment to foreign states through the Canadian Commercial Corporation, and complaints to the Canadian International Trade Tribunal. Our construction litigators can help you navigate the complex laws relating to construction liens on Crown lands and Municipal roadways, and advise on your rights on claims against Performance Bonds and Labour and Material Payment Bonds.
